President's Corner

Retirees are not without opinions. I've been flooded with e-mails, letters and phone calls, as we've tried to determine the best convocation course. Thank you for the wonderful ideas you have sent.

As you now know, our convocation will begin on Thursday morning, July 6, at Southern Adventist University. Registration details are enclosed with this newsletter. Please do us and you a favor by registering early. I believe the program will be excellent, worth your time to attend. The schedule has been designed so there will be additional time to interact with each other, which is what you have told us you'd like to have.

News Notes from Mort Mort Juberg

News Notes will return soon after a brief hiatus while Mort Juberg recuperates from surgery for a

A special note to the "recently retired." Many of you have said you don't want to attend a gathering of "old people." You don't know them, and feel you would have few of your friends and acquaintances with whom you could associate. If the preceding words are indicative of what you're thinking, I hope you'll give the SAU convocation a chance. Come and see who is there, see if you enjoy the program, and if it would be worth your time to come again. At the La Sierra convocation, I met two ladies from Jamaica who didn't know anyone, yet joined in and, as they said, "We had the time of our lives."

One confession I'll have to make – in the previous newsletter, I wrote that there would be no registration fee. As we have made up the budget, the expenses have run so high that we've had to add a registration fee. However, if you cannot afford the fee, we will arrange for it to be paid for you. Just let me know when you register if that is your situation. So please plan to attend – we'll be blessed by your presence, and you'll make many new friends. Sincerely,

Steve Gifford
